Questions About Eligibility for Federal Student Loan Discharge

9. Will I be eligible for a closed school loan discharge?

You may be eligible for a 100% discharge of Direct Loans, Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program loans, or Federal Perkins Loans you received to attend any school under either of these circumstances:

- Your school closes while you're enrolled, and you do not complete your program, either at the closed school or another school. If you were on an approved leave of absence when the school ceased operations, you are considered to have been enrolled at the school when it closed.
- You stopped attending your school within 120 days before it closed.

You are not eligible for discharge of your loans if your school closes and any of the following is true:

- You have completed all the course work for the program, even if you have not received a diploma or certificate.
- You stopped attending more than 120 days before the school closed.
- You enroll in and you complete a comparable educational program at another school and receive credits for the classes you took at the closed school. However, if you enroll in this comparable program and complete it, but the new school does not give you credit for any course work completed at the closed school, you would be eligible for a closed school discharge.

You also may be eligible for a closed school loan discharge in special circumstances, such as if you received a degree or certificate but didn't complete your instruction or transferred but pursued a different program of study. Get information about how these special circumstances may impact your eligibility for a closed school loan discharge.

10. Do I have the option to refuse the teach-out and get a closed school discharge?

- If your school ceases providing instruction to complete your program and offers you the option to complete your education at another school, you may refuse the option and still qualify for a federal loan discharge.
- If you refuse the teach-out option, but you later enroll at another school in substantially the same program in which you had been enrolled, the school gives you credit for work completed at your current school, and you complete the program at that school, you may not qualify for closed school discharge.

11. What is the deadline for applying for a closed school discharge?

There is no deadline for applying for a closed school discharge.

12. How do I apply for a closed school discharge?

- Contact your loan servicer about the application process for getting your loan discharged.
- Complete and return the Closed School Loan Discharge Application sent to you by your servicer. You may also use this Closed School Loan Discharge Application to return it to your loan servicer.

- You may also want to review our overview of the discharge process.

All completed Closed School Loan Discharge Applications must be sent to your requisite loan servicer.

13. How do I find out which loan servicer is servicing my account?

Log in to My Federal Student Aid or call 1-800-4-FED-AID.

14. Am I eligible to have my private student loans forgiven?

Only federal loans are eligible for the closed school discharge described here. For information regarding any options that may be available with respect to the private loans you received to attend Corinthian, contact your private loan lender.

Questions About Schools That Zenith Has Acquired

15. When did the sale take place?

Zenith finalized its acquisition of more than 50 Everest and WyoTech campuses from Corinthian College on Feb. 2, 2015. View the list of campuses acquired by Zenith.

16. What are my options for continuing my studies if my school was sold?

This change in ownership has no immediate impact on your ability to continue your studies at your school or to receive federal student aid funds from the U.S. Department of Education. In addition, you may be able to transfer to another eligible school that offers a comparable educational program. If you transfer to another school, that school decides whether to give you credit for work you completed at your original school.

17. Will I be able to finish the current semester/term?

This change in ownership has no immediate impact on your ability to complete the current semester or term.

18. Will I be able to complete my program?

Yes. If you wish to continue your program at your school, you will be able to complete your program of study at the appropriate Zenith campus. You may also be provided other options by Zenith staff for transferring to a different program. Further, if you do transfer into a comparable program offered by another school, that school will evaluate your Zenith/Corinthian course work and will decide whether to give you credit for the work already completed, and what courses you need to take to complete your program of study.

19. What happens to my student loan or Federal Pell Grant under the acquisition?

Your student loan and Pell Grant eligibility will remain the same while the Zenith campus applies for eligibility to participate in the federal student aid programs under the new ownership.

20. Will I have to reapply for admission to Zenith?

No, former Corinthian students will not be required to reapply for admission to a Zenith school that has been acquired through the sale.

21. Will the change in ownership affect my eligibility for federal student aid?

As long as the U.S. Department of Education continues to approve the Zenith school for federal student aid purposes, you will be able to continue to receive federal aid for which you are eligible.

22. If the U.S. Department of Education does not approve the school for federal aid purposes after the change in ownership, what are my options?

- If the school closes, you may qualify for discharge of federal loans already received for attendance at that school.
- If the school does not close, you may continue your enrollment in the program, but you will not be able to receive new federal student assistance, and will not qualify for discharge of federal loans already received for attendance at that school.
- You may transfer to a school that is eligible to participate in the federal student aid programs, and obtain federal student aid funds to complete your program of study there.

23. Will I have to reapply for financial aid?

No, you will not be required to complete a new Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA®) for the current term or award year. However, you may be asked to update your current FAFSA.

Questions About Schools That Zenith Plans to Teach Out

24. My school informed me that it is planning a “teach-out” for my program. What does this mean?

A teach-out means the school will complete instruction to all currently enrolled students, but not enroll any new students because it is planning on ceasing operations.

25. What are my options for continuing my studies if my school is being taught out?

Zenith has indicated its intention to conduct teach-out of the programs for 12 acquired schools. A teach-out provides the opportunity for you to finish your program at your school. However, you should contact the institution for additional information if you are enrolled at one of the schools Zenith plans to teach out.

26. What happens to my student loan or Federal Pell Grant if my school is scheduled to be taught out?

If you remain enrolled in your program at Zenith and the U.S. Department of Education continues to approve the Zenith teach-out school for federal student aid purposes, there is no impact on your student loans and Pell Grant funds for which you qualify.

27. Will I be required to apply for admission at the school providing the teach-out?

No, you will not be required to apply for admission.

28. Will I be required to reapply for financial aid at a school Zenith is teaching out?

No, you will not be required to complete a new Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) for the current term or award year.

History of Corinthian Colleges' Agreement with the U.S. Department of Education

On July 3, 2014, Corinthian Colleges, the parent company of the Everest Institute, Everest and Heald Colleges, and WyoTech Technical Schools, reached an agreement with the U.S. Department of Education on a transition plan to protect and address the needs of its affected students by providing an opportunity for students to complete their course of study or in some instances to receive a refund of tuition and other charges paid by students. The agreement took effect July 8, 2014. The agreement outlines a plan to help enrolled students continue their studies with minimal disruption.

On Nov. 20, 2014, Zenith Education Group, ECMC's newly-formed nonprofit education entity, announced that it planned to purchase more than 50 Everest and WyoTech campuses. For more information on the acquisition proposal from November 2014, review the U.S. Department of Education's press release.

On Feb. 3, 2015, Zenith Education Group announced that it had finalized its acquisition of more than 50 Everest and WyoTech campuses from Corinthian Colleges, Inc., and subsequently transitioned them from for-profit to nonprofit status. In addition, Zenith will be teaching out 12 of Corinthian College's other locations. View the lists of schools that Zenith purchased and will continue to operate and schools whose programs of study are being taught out.

For more information on Zenith's acquisition of Everest and Wyotech locations, view the Zenith Education Group press release, the Department of Education's announcement, the list of conduct provisions under which Zenith will operate, and copies of Zenith's temporary Program Participation Agreements.

On April 14, 2015, the Department of Education announced that following a comprehensive review, it had confirmed hundreds of cases of misrepresentation of job placement rates to current and prospective students in Corinthian Colleges' Heald College system and informed the company of its intentions to impose a $30 million fine for misleading consumers. In addition, it notified Corinthian of its intentions to deny the recertification applications of Heald College's Salinas and Stockton (CA) campuses. The announcement effectively halted enrollment across Heald's 14 existing campuses.

For more information about the Department's intent to fine Heald Colleges, review the Department's press release and the Department's intent to fine notice.

On April 27, 2015, Corinthian Colleges announced that effective immediately, they were ceasing operations and instruction at their remaining 30 locations—including two satellite campuses—across the country. As a result of this precipitous closure, all remaining Everest, Heald, and Wyotech locations under the Corinthian brand have lost their eligibility to receive federal student aid funds from the Department. Students impacted by this closure may have the option of applying for a closed school loan discharge or transferring their earned credits to another institution and continuing their education. While officials at each of the impacted Corinthian schools are required to immediately contact students to inform them of their options, the Department will also be directly contacting via e-mail currently or recently enrolled students to inform them of Corinthian's loss of federal student aid eligibility and the options available to them.

On May 4, 2015, Corinthian Colleges filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

- You must have been enrolled at the closed school or on an approved leave of absence on the date that the school closed, or withdrawn from the school not more than 120 days before it closed to be eligible for this form of discharge.
- If you withdrew more than 120 days before the school closed, you may be eligible for this form of discharge if the Department determines that exceptional circumstances related to the school’s closing justify an extension of this 120-day period. Examples of exceptional circumstances include, but are not limited to: (1) the closed school’s loss of accreditation; (2) the closed school’s discontinuation of the majority of its academic programs; (3) action by the State to revoke the closed school’s license to operate or award academic credentials in the State; or (4) a finding by a State or Federal government agency that the closed school violated State or Federal law.

SECTION 6: TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR LOAN DISCHARGE BASED ON SCHOOL CLOSURE (CONTINUED)

- By signing this form, you are agreeing to cooperate with the Department or the Department's designee in any enforcement action related to this application.
- This application may be denied, or your discharge may be revoked, if you fail to provide testimony, a sworn statement, or documentation upon request, or if you provide testimony, a sworn statement, or documentation that does not support the material representation that you made on this form or on any accompanying documents.

The principal purposes for collecting the information on this form, including your SSN, are to verify your identity, to determine your eligibility to receive a loan or a benefit on a loan (such as a deferment, forbearance, discharge, or forgiveness) under the Direct Loan, FFEL, or Perkins Loan Programs, to permit the servicing of your loan(s), and, if it becomes necessary, to locate you and to collect and report on your loan(s) if your loan(s) becomes delinquent or defaults. We also use your SSN as an account identifier and to permit you to access your account information electronically.

The routine uses of this information include, but are not limited to, its disclosure to federal, state, or local agencies, to private parties such as relatives, present and former employers, business and personal associates, to consumer reporting agencies, to financial and educational institutions, and to guaranty agencies in order to verify your identity, to determine your eligibility to receive a loan or a benefit on a loan, to permit the servicing or collection of your loan(s), to enforce the terms of the loan(s), to investigate possible fraud and to verify compliance with federal student financial aid program regulations, or to locate you if you become delinquent in your loan payments or if you default. To provide default rate calculations, disclosures may be made to guaranty agencies, to financial and educational institutions, or to state agencies. In the event of litigation, we may send records to the Department of Justice, a court, adjudicative body, counsel, party, or witness if the disclosure is relevant and necessary to the litigation. If this information, either alone or with other information, indicates a potential violation of law, we may send it to the appropriate authority for action. We may send information to members of Congress if you ask them to help you with federal student aid questions. In circumstances involving employment complaints, grievances, or disciplinary actions, we may disclose relevant records to adjudicate or investigate the issues. If provided for by a collective bargaining agreement, we may disclose records to a labor organization recognized under 5 U.S.C. Chapter 71. Disclosures may be made to our contractors for the purpose of performing any programmatic function that requires disclosure of records. Before making any such disclosure, we will require the contractor to maintain Privacy Act safeguards. Disclosures may also be made to qualified researchers under Privacy Act safeguards.

Reminder: What happens to your student loans if your school is shut down

BY ROHIT CHOPRA

When you're told that your college will be shutting down, there can be a lot of uncertainty about what comes next. In light of recent closures of certain for-profit colleges, we wanted to share some helpful advice to help you navigate the situation.

This information and answers to other common questions about student loans are also available through Ask CFPB.

If you have federal student loans

If you have federal student loans and are currently enrolled or recently left a college or university that has shut its doors, you may be able to discharge (cancel) your loans by applying for a closed school discharge, which requires you to fill out a form .

This option is only a possibility if your school closes. If you are attending a school that is sold, you may not be eligible to ask for discharge under this process, even if your school no longer offers your program of study.

If you do have your federal loans discharged and you end up transferring credits to a similar program, you may have to pay back the loans that were discharged.

If you have private student loans

Generally, if you have private student loans, you may still be responsible for repaying them. However, some states may have programs that assist students with private student loans in the event of a school closure. In addition, some private student lenders may offer options to assist certain borrowers in this situation.

If you think you won't be able to afford to repay your private student loan, you should contact your student loan servicer immediately to learn more about your options. And if you run into trouble, you can also submit a complaint online or by calling (855) 411-2372.

If you're offered an option for a "teach-out" to complete your program

If your school has announced that it is closing, you may be offered a "teach out," an arrangement through which you may be able to complete your program and receive your degree or certificate.

If you accept a "teach-out" to complete your program at your school or another school, you will be responsible for repaying all of your student loans. If you decline a "teach-out" offer and the school closes, you may not have to pay back your federal student loans.

Rohit Chopra is the CFPB's Student Loan Ombudsman. To learn more about the CFPB's work for students and young Americans, visit consumerfinance.gov/students.

Special Bulletin for Current and Former Students Enrolled at Corinthian-Owned Schools

On September 16, 2014, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) sued Corinthian Colleges, Inc., owner of Everest, Heald, and WyoTech, for using illegal tactics to induce students into taking out private student loans. The CFPB's lawsuit also alleges that Corinthian violated the law by harassing borrowers to make payments by pulling students from class, and preventing them from attending class, registering, graduating, and receiving a diploma.

In addition, Zenith Education, a subsidiary of ECMC Group, announced that it would be purchasing a substantial number of Everest and WyoTech campuses from Corinthian. Today, the CFPB announced that we worked with the U.S. Department of Education and ECMC to secure approximately $480 million in debt relief for former and current students enrolled at Corinthian-owned schools.

While our lawsuit against Corinthian is ongoing, this special bulletin includes more information on today's announcement. We urge you to read it carefully so you fully understand your options and obligations on your student loans.

Relief for Students who Attended Corinthian-Owned Schools

What do I need to do to sign up for this relief? How do I know if I am eligible?

My school was not bought by Zenith (also known as ECMC). Will I benefit?

How much debt relief will I receive?

Will I owe taxes on balances that are forgiven?

I was talked into taking out Genesis loans to attend a Corinthian-owned school. I couldn't pay and now my credit is damaged. What can I do to repair it?

Do I have to repay my private and federal student loans if I think Corinthian broke the law?

Impact of Change in Ownership and School Closures

I'm a current student. My school is part of the sale to Zenith (also known as ECMC). Will my experience at Zenith be the same or better or worse than when Corinthian owned my school?

I'm a current student. My school was not part of the sale to Zenith (also known as ECMC). What happens to my federal student loans if my school is closing down?

Your Rights When Dealing with Debt Collectors

If my loan qualifies to receive benefits under today's agreement, can a debt collector sue me (or threaten to sue me) if I cannot make payments on any remaining balance I owe?
What are some of the legal limits on what debt collectors can say or do?

Reporting Potentially Illegal Practices

What should I do if I believe that a debt collector engaged in illegal practices that harmed me?
What should I do if my school is engaged in practices that I think are unfair, deceptive, or otherwise illegal?

Relief for Students Who Attended Corinthian-Owned Schools

What do I need to do to sign up for this relief? How do I know if I am eligible?

- Nothing. Your loan servicer (the company that collects payments from you) will notify you if you benefit from today's agreement, as well as any remaining balance you may owe.
- You should be sure your servicer has your most recent contact information.

My school was not bought by Zenith (also known as ECMC). Will I benefit?

- The debt relief announced today will benefit current and former students with qualifying private student loans, regardless of the Corinthian-owned school they currently attend or formerly attended.

How much debt relief will I receive?

- The total amount of relief for borrowers with eligible loans is approximately $480 million. These borrowers will immediately see the amount they owe reduced by 40%.

Will I owe taxes on balances that are forgiven?

- While we cannot provide you with tax advice, we do not expect today's action to lead to significant tax obligations for borrowers.

I was talked into taking out Genesis loans to attend a Corinthian-owned school. I couldn't pay and now my credit is damaged. What can I do to repair it?

- As part of today's agreement, credit reporting agencies will receive instructions to delete any existing negative credit reporting information from borrowers' credit reports. If your loan qualifies, this will happen automatically.
- You can protect your credit record going forward by continuing to make on-time payments on any remaining balance.

Do I have to repay my private and federal student loans if I think Corinthian broke the law?

- Today's announcement does not affect your responsibility for repaying your student loans. But it will lead to substantial, immediate relief for many borrowers with Genesis private student loans. Additionally, the CFPB's lawsuit with Corinthian is ongoing.
- Although federal student loans are not part of today's action, check out Section 23 (titled "Discharge") of your Federal Direct Loan Master Promissory Note (your Direct Loan contract). In some cases, you can seek forgiveness if the school did something wrong or failed to do something that it should have done. Contact your servicer (the company that collects payments from you) for more information. If your servicer doesn't give you clear information about this option, you can submit a complaint.
- To protect your credit record, you should continue to make payments on remaining loan balances.
- For more information on how to navigate repayment options on your loans (including income-driven payment options on your federal student loans), visit the CFPB's Repay Student Debt tool.

Impact of Change in Ownership and School Closures

I'm a current student. My school is part of the sale to Zenith (also known as ECMC). Will my experience at Zenith be the same or better or worse than when Corinthian owned my school? What if no longer want to attend?

- Zenith has not previously run schools or colleges. But, as part of today's announcement, the CFPB is requiring Zenith to meet certain standards of conduct to avoid a continuation of Corinthian's practices that the Bureau alleged harmed thousands of students across the country.
- The Department of Education separately reached an agreement with Zenith related to tuition reductions and refunds, among other things.

I'm a current student. My school was not part of the sale to Zenith (also known as ECMC). What happens to my federal student loans if my school is closing down?

- If you have federal student loans and are currently enrolled or recently left a college or university that has shut its doors, you may be able to discharge (cancel) your loans if you apply for a loan discharge.
- This option is only a possibility if your school closes. If you are attending a school that is sold, you may not be eligible to ask for a discharge under this process, even if your school no longer offers your program of study.
- According to federal regulations, the Department of Education will mail you a loan discharge application (if they have your current address) after confirming the date of the school's closure.
- If you do have your federal loans discharged and you end up transferring credits to a similar program, you may have to pay back the loans that were discharged.

Your Rights When Dealing with Debt Collectors

If my loan qualifies to receive benefits under today's agreement, can a debt collector sue me (or threaten to sue me) if I cannot make payments on any remaining balance I owe?

- Debt collectors may not sue or threaten legal action against borrowers when seeking payment on any remaining balances on private student loans that are subject to today's agreement.
- For more information about what debt collectors can and cannot do, visit AskCFPB.

What are some of the legal limits on what debt collectors can say or do?

- The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), the main federal law that governs debt collection practices, prohibits debt collection companies from using abusive, unfair or deceptive practices to collect past due debts from you.
- Generally speaking, debt collectors may not contact you at an unusual time or place, or at a time or place they know is inconvenient to you. If a debt collector knows that you're not allowed to receive the debt collector's calls at work then the debt collector is not allowed to call you there. If a debt collector knows that an attorney is representing you about the debt, the debt collector generally must stop contacting you and must contact the attorney instead. This is only true if the debt collector knows, or can easily find out, the name and contact information of your attorney. If an attorney is representing you and a debt collector calls, tell them which attorney is representing you and that the debt collector should contact the attorney instead.

Reporting Potentially Illegal Practices

What should I do if I believe that a debt collector engaged in illegal practices that harmed me?

- If you have a complaint related to the collection of a Genesis Loan or another financial product or service, you can submit a complaint to the Bureau through our website, www.consumerfinance.gov/complaint.

What should I do if my school is engaging in practices that I think are unfair, deceptive, or otherwise illegal?

- If you see problems related to the quality of instruction or student services provided at any campus or online program, you should document any issues by writing down observations, including relevant times and dates, as well as detailed descriptions of the incident and the names of any school personnel involved.
- Students can share their stories with the CFPB using our Tell Your Story function on our website.
- The Department of Veterans Affairs also accepts complaints from consumers related to colleges and universities. The Department of Veterans Affairs will share your complaint with other state and federal law enforcement agencies. Consumers can file a complaint online.

A MESSAGE TO CORINTHIAN COLLEGES STUDENTS

On April 26, 2015, Corinthian Colleges, Inc. announced that it has "ceased substantially all operations and discontinued instruction" at 28 Heald, Everest, and WyoTech campuses.

The closure follows oversight and enforcement actions by state and federal agencies, including the California Department of Justice, U.S. Department of Education, the U.S. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, the California Student Aid Commission, the California Bureau of Private Postsecondary Education, and several other state attorneys general. These agencies allege that Corinthian lied to potential students about critical facts such as job placement rates.

The California Attorney General is committed to holding Corinthian and other predatory colleges accountable for unlawful activity and helping student victims access the relief they deserve under the law. For more information about the Attorney General's lawsuit, please read the FAQs found here: https://oag.ca.gov/consumers/general/consumers_cii_faqs.

Some Corinthian students may have the right to a refund of their tuition money through a student loan discharge or through a reimbursement of funds.

To help Corinthian students learn more about their legal rights and how to protect them, the Attorney General has created the following online tool. Corinthian students can use the tool to learn about their rights, how to apply for relief, and how to connect to local people and organizations that can help.

Note: If you transfer academic credits to another school, you may lose your right to a refund.

The closing of a school can be a very confusing and stressful event for students. The Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education (Bureau) has designed this guide to help you navigate this process by providing you with the information necessary to continue your education.

Obtaining Academic and Financial Records

1. Obtain your Student Academic Record
2. Obtain your Student Financial Record
3. Obtain your Proof of Training Document (for cosmetology/barbering students)
4. Obtain copies of ALL paperwork the school is providing you or asking you to sign. CAREFULLY REVIEW ALL PAPERWORK BEFORE YOU SIGN!
5. Make copies of your enrollment agreements and all receipts
6. Create a folder to keep all the documentation you have

It is important that you obtain your academic, attendance, and financial records as soon as possible. Since your school has closed or is closing, your ability to access these records from the school may be temporary. These records are necessary if you plan to transfer to a new school, submit a Student Tuition Recovery Fund (STRF) claim, or ask for a student loan discharge from the United States Department of Education. If you transfer to a new school these records will help your new school determine what federal student aid you have received and coursework you have successfully completed. This information will also help the new school determine your student aid eligibility and how many credits may be transferable to your new program of study.

Teach-Out vs. Transfer

If you want to continue your education at a different institution, you will need to understand the difference between a teach-out and a transfer.

Teach-out means another school allows you to complete a similar or identical program of study for which you may not incur additional costs (outside of what you would have paid had you been able to complete your program at the school that closed). California Education Code section 94866 defines teach-out as “the arrangements an institution makes for its students to complete their educational programs when the institution ceases to operate.”

If you choose to participate in the teach-out you need to be aware of the following:

- The Bureau received a teach-out plan from the school.
- If you withdraw from the teach-out institution within the first two (2) weeks of enrollment, your economic losses are calculated as though you never participated in the teach-out.
- If you withdraw from the teach-out institution after the first two (2) weeks of enrollment, your economic loss includes only a portion of charges for the hours of the education service paid for, but not received from, either institution.

Transfer means you may be able to use the academic credits or “clock” hours you have earned at the closed school towards the completion of a similar or different program of study at another school.

With a transfer, you may incur additional costs and will need to contact the school you wish to transfer to in order to find out if any of the credits you want to transfer will be accepted.

Loan Discharge

If you were unable to complete your education due to a school closure and don't participate in a teach-out or transfer to another school, you may be eligible for a discharge of your loan if you have a federal student loan.

Loan discharges are not automatic with the closure of a school. You must send an application for loan discharge to the holder of your loan(s).

You can find a loan discharge application and other important information at <https://www.myeddebt.com/borrower/>. ALL federal government loan questions should be directed to the United States Department of Education at 800-4FED-AID (433-3243).

For non-federal loans, contact the holder of your loan(s) to inquire what relief may be available to you.

Student Tuition Recovery Fund

The STRF exists to relieve or mitigate economic losses suffered by a student in an educational program at a qualifying institution.

If you are a student who has exhausted all other possible ways to recover lost tuition (including requesting a refund from the institution), you may file a STRF claim application.

You may download a STRF claim application in English or Spanish at <http://www.bppe.ca.gov/students>.

Before completing the STRF application, you should review the eligibility requirements listed in this document as the first step in determining whether you are eligible for reimbursement from the STRF.

Eligibility Requirements

- Your school must be officially closed.
- The school was a qualifying (approved) institution.
- You were a California resident at the time you signed the enrollment agreement or enrolled in the residency program.
- You must have proof of STRF fee payment.
- You must have proof you pre-paid tuition.
- You must show proof you attended at or near the time of school closure.
- You must have a Social Security Number or Taxpayer ID. If you do not have a Social Security Number or Taxpayer ID, please contact the Internal Revenue Service.

If you do not meet the above eligibility requirements but feel that you qualify otherwise, please contact the Bureau for assistance.

Submitting a STRF Application and Documentation

The STRF application can be downloaded at www.bppe.ca.gov under the "Students" tab. You must complete the application in its entirety, including your signature and the date. Incomplete applications will be returned without any action taken.

If you choose to submit a STRF application and you have been properly notified by the institution or the Bureau of your student rights, you have up to two (2) years to submit your STRF claim.

If you choose to submit a STRF application and you have not been properly notified by the Bureau or the institution, you have a maximum of four (4) years to submit your STRF application.

The application asks for several pieces of documentation including, but not limited to:

- Enrollment agreement.
- Loan documents including the current status of your student loan(s) and whether you have applied for a loan discharge.
- Transcripts, certificates, diplomas, and proof of training document (if applicable).
- Leave of absence documentation.
- Receipts for all transactions with the school (e.g., bank/credit card statements, receipts from the school, statement from the school listing all payments).

Note: If you paid by credit card, you need to dispute the charges and ask that the charges be reversed, in writing, to your credit card company. The credit card company will respond with a letter denying or approving this request. Please submit a copy of this letter with your application.

Please provide a description of your economic loss. Economic losses do not include STRF assessments, room and board, supplies, transportation, application fees, or non-pecuniary damages such as inconvenience, emotional distress, or punitive damages.

When filling out the application be sure to answer each question with as much detail as possible. Incomplete applications will be returned without further processing.

Mailing your Claim to the Bureau

Mail all of the required documents to the address listed at the top of the application form. Please be sure to include the original signed application and copies of your supporting documents. DO NOT send original supporting documents as those documents will not be returned to you.

Upon receipt of your application, the Bureau will notify you that your claim has been received and provide you with a claim number. Please keep this notification for your records. You will need the claim number for all inquiries regarding your application.

Approving or Denying Your Claim

Claims are reviewed in the order they are received. Please be patient. Your claim will be processed as quickly as possible.

During the Bureau's review process, you may be asked to provide additional documentation. Please provide the documents or a thorough explanation as to why the documents could not be provided within the timeframe listed on the notice. If you need additional time to submit the requested documentation please contact the Bureau immediately.

If your claim is approved you will be mailed a letter of confirmation stating the amount of the claim to be paid. Payment is typically received within 60 days of the date on the letter.

If your claim is denied you will receive a letter of explanation for the denial. This letter will include instructions on the Bureau's appeal process.

Should you have further questions please contact the Bureau's STRF Unit at (888) 370-7589 and press "5" when prompted.

A closed school discharge would release you from your obligation to repay your federal loans (such as a Federal Direct Loan, a Perkins Loan, or a Federal Family Education Loan). A closed school discharge is available for students enrolled at the time of school closure, who were on an approved leave of absence, or who withdrew within 120 days of the school closure.

Based on the information you provided us, you appear to be eligible for a closed school discharge.

In order to access this relief, you will need to meet minimum eligibility requirements and submit an application. Educational Opportunities

IMPORTANT! If you have the right to a closed school discharge or to access funds from the STRF and you choose to transfer one or more of your existing Corinthian College education credits to another school, then you will lose your right to a closed school discharge or to funds from the STRF. Before you enroll in any new school, be sure to talk to both an academic advisor and a legal aid organization to discuss your options.

Community colleges often offer similar programs and degrees as were offered by the Corinthian Colleges, but at a much lower cost. For example, a study found that in 2012, an associate's degree in Paralegal Studies at a Corinthian College cost over $40,000.* A comparable degree at a local community college would have cost under $2,500.

Below, you will find a list of local community colleges. Call your local college and speak with an academic advisor. Let them know that you formerly attended a Corinthian College. The academic advisor will help you explore your options, including options in educational programs and financial aid, so that you can make the right choice that fits your needs.

TIP! Each community college offers a variety of programs and opportunities. The California Community Colleges have created a website where you can quickly look up each school's profile and scorecard: Information About Community Colleges.

Application Process

Your local legal aid organization may be able to help identify which forms of relief you are eligible for and guide you through the steps to successfully apply for relief. These steps include: collecting documents to prove enrollment and tuition amounts, drafting a cover letter to ask your loan servicer to stop collecting on your debt while your discharge application is being reviewed, submitting a complete application, and reviewing your loan servicer's decision on your application.

The Closed School Discharge application can be found here: Loan Discharge Application.

Step by step directions for the application process.

Student FAQ

1. What happened today?

Effective Monday, April 27, Corinthian Colleges, the parent company for Heald College, Everest College, WyoTech, and Everest College Phoenix, will cease operations and your campus will be closed. We are in the process of identifying other colleges and universities to which you may be able to transfer and complete your studies.

Everest College and WyoTech campuses that were previously sold to Zenith are not affected by the announcement and will remain open.

2. What caused the announcement?

We want you to know that we made every effort to find a qualified buyer to purchase our remaining campuses and keep your school open and several had expressed interest in doing so. Unfortunately, largely as a result of recent state and federal regulatory actions, we were unable to complete a sale, and our only option was to close our schools.

3. Who or what are the educational partnerships?

We will be hosting meetings for you to learn about options for continuing your education. Please see the schedule on the final pages for more information.

4. Where can I obtain my transcript?

Please come to the student meetings on your campus at the designated time to obtain a copy of your transcript. This will be the most convenient opportunity for you to obtain an official and an unofficial transcript from your school. In the future to get official transcripts, you should contact your state authorizing agency. Information will be posted to www.cci.edu.

5. If I am a former student, how can I obtain a transcript?

We are currently working with your state licensing agency to develop a way for you to obtain your transcript. Please continue to check www.cci.edu.

6. Where can I find a copy of my diploma?

Unfortunately, diplomas are not available. However, an official transcript will note your degree and graduation date.

7. I have Federal loans outstanding. What are my rights and options?

The U.S. Department of Education has two websites that provide information concerning your rights and options.

The first website addresses students of Everest, Everest College Phoenix, WyoTech and Heald. <https://studentaid.ed.gov/about/announcements/corinthian>.

The second website addresses closed schools in general. <https://studentaid.ed.gov/repay-loans/forgiveness-cancellation/closed-school>

8. In the education section of my resume, should I remove reference to the school name?

No. You have worked very hard and in many cases have made significant sacrifices in pursuing your education. We are enormously proud of you, and you should be proud of your education.

Note: Everest College and WyoTech campuses that were previously sold will remain open.
